RAILWAY HOUSE, MILTON, MASS.

The subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has taken a lease of this extensive house, and newly refitted and furnished throughout with every article necessary for the accommodation and comfort of travellers, convivial parties, &c.

A beautiful grove, with pleasant walks, a garden, swing, &c. are connected with this establishment, and its proximity to the city renders it an inviting place of resort for those who may desire to spend a short time away from the bustle and sultry air of a crowded place of business.

The bowling alleys have been newly relaid, and good attendants provided.

The ladder will be stowed with the best of provisions, and such delicacies as the seasons afford. The bar will also be kept supplied with choice wines and liquors. Good stabling for horses.

The Dorchester and Milton line of stages leave for Boston every morning and noon, and return at noon and evening.

quorum being formed in the Senate. Lieutenant Governor Engs, instantly withdrew—it was said at the time he had resigned—and for two days no quorum could be formed. The federalists raised a shout of triumph, believing that the election of members of Congress would be sent back to the people. But Mr Almy at length so far recovered as to be able to take his seat, and the plans of the federalists were defeated. There was a deliberate plan formed and attempted to be executed to deprive Messrs Pearce and Spangler of their seats in Congress, after they had been elected by a fair majority of the people of Rhode Island—and this was approved and glorified in the same federal party which now expresses so much holy horror because two thirds of the people of Maryland have determined no longer to submit to the will of a minority of one third, and have taken the only course left to them for procuring a revision of their constitution. But there is no parallel between the two cases. The federalists of Rhode Island made a deliberate attempt to deprive the majority of the people of their choice—the democrats of Maryland, resorted to the only constitutional means their power to give to the majority their rights, and to relieve the State from a rotten-borough system of representation, the most odious which can be conceived of in a republican government."

More Panic Making.—The Bank Whig party have lately been using their utmost endeavors to raise up another panic in the West, regarding the specie payments, much in the same manner as the great panic was created under Biddle, after the removal of the deposits. The banks in the West refuse to make loans, and are calling in for the purpose of making a pressure. After oppressing their customers in this manner, they publish abroad, that they are obliged to call in their debts, on account of the Treasury order, which is draining the Western States of their specie. The Globe says—"We have taken pains to inquire, at the Treasury, the real state of facts, and we find that so far from a drain of SPECIE being the consequence of the order, making the speculators in lands pay specie, it has a directly opposite effect, even in Ohio and Kentucky. The result is, that the millions, which now go from the Atlantic States, for speculative investment in lands, go in GOLD AND SILVER." Those who became actual settlers, from Ohio and Kentucky, are permitted to pay for their land in the paper of the banks of the States. Hence, neither of these States is drained of specie by the Treasury order. The Globe states that the Deposite Bank, at Lexington, Kentucky, and its branches, have, at this time, $700,000 in specie, at their disposal; and that the Secretary of the Treasury has directed the transfer to that bank of five or six hundred thousand dollars more, derived from the land sales. "The Bank has but about fourteen hundred thousand dollars in circulation. The actual present basis of $700,000, ought, according to banking laws, bear a circulation of $2,800,000; when the additional sum of $600,000 is received for the State's Deposite, it ought to bear a circulation of 5,000,000." Yet, notwithstanding this state of things, the opposition are doing all in their power to create a panic, inducing the people to make runs upon the banks, and to hoard up their money. They are reviving all the old tricks so well played and so fairly exposed, under the administration of Biddle.

A Michigan paper says that this panic had its origin among the aiders and abettors of the old panic, the Wall-street brokers, who are of the tribe of Biddle. Biddle, it is said, still retains millions of the old Bank, which belong to the U. S., which will all be employed to press upon the State institutions. A run is to be produced on the Western banks, at a moment when the greatest amount of solid capital is gravitating towards the west yet even known. The only effect of the law, requiring payment in specie from persons purchasing for speculation, is to prevent the public property from being converted into mere paper. The President has, therefore, done a great public service, by preventing the choice lands of the West from being converted into paper money, that will dissolve into nothing in the end, and again, by checking the rage for speculation, which involved both individuals and banks, and tended to bring about a total suspension of specie payments. The effect of this passing of the public lands into the hands of speculators, would have been to make the price of lands so high as to prevent settlements on the part of emigrants, except as tenants of these lands, under companies and wealthy landlords. In this way would our farmers, who look to the public lands as offering opportunity for investing their small property for the future advantage of their rising families, be disappointed, and actually cheated out of what may be considered the birth-right of citizens of the United States, who are disposed to settle in the West.

The Atlas had better keep close about supporting deserters; its party supported King for Governor of Maine—Churchill for Congress, from the same State, both deserters. In this city, Parker H. Pierce and every other deserter is locked in its arms. Verplanck, Sedden, Noah, Webb, and a host of knavish deserters are the leading whigs in New York, and Wickliffe, and his coteries, in Kentucky. In Pennsylvania, Burden, Dickey, and their clan, are the whig magnates—and thus is it throughout the U. S. Indeed, it requires a strong ingredient of treachery to make a genuine whig of the '36 stamp, and hence the success of apostates among them.

Judge White now admits that he urged the appointment of Mr John Pelt, of Tennessee, to an office in the cabinet in 1831. Bell, failing to obtain the office, was disappointed of course, and from that time to the present, has undoubtedly been opposed, secretly and openly, to the present administration. White tickled Bell in 1831, and Bell tickled White in 1834.

The Atlas advises Mr Bancroft and Mr A. H. Everett to write their political articles in Greek and Latin. We can easily imagine that the Atlas may have its reasons for wishing that these gentlemen should not be understood by the people. We believe we should not risk much in advising the "cock-sparrows" of that paper, as the Gazette pleasantly calls them, to write as good English and as much of it as they can.

Some of the federal papers appear to bear the Atlas collar rather uneasily. The Continent, in a late article headed the "Atlas Faction," gives strong signs of breaking loose. Major Haughton must hurry home, or his practical craft will soon be in as bad a condition as the steamer Independence—viz: her hull beneath water, and the rats left in charge of her drowned in her hold.

The Boston Post, with its characteristic love of truth, asserted last week, that F. O. J. Smith was re-elected to Congress.—Providence Journal.

Why don't you, Mr Journal, with your characteristic impudence, deny it?

The Salem Commercial Advertiser, one of our most able democratic Journals, has been giving some of its whig contemporaries an awful basting. We could hear the screams in this city, a distance of thirteen miles.

Samuel C. Allen was nominated by the Democratic Convention held at Montague, the 29th of September, as a candidate for member of Congress for the 6th District.

There was a story about, a few days since, that two respectable young females residing in Providence, had been abducted. The Journal says it is untrue.

Col. Thorne has concluded to give his sojourn in London instead of New York, this winter, and has gone out in the Gladiator.

A correspondent speaks in high terms of Mr Wills's performances at the Nationals.

Forgery.—We have before remarked upon the arrest of a young man named John Case, of Boston, who assumed the name of Warren, for forgery, and now gather further particulars from a report of his examination at the Police Office. On Friday last he went to the office of Orlando C. Osborn and George K. Sistare, Brokers, No. 13 Wall street, requesting them to discount a draught for him for $1363.45, purporting to be drawn by Mr Osis Rich, of Boston, and accepted by Hubbard & Casey, of Broad street, New York, in favor of Mr George P. Warren, payable at the Phoenix Bank. Messrs Osborn & Sistare unsuspecting discounted the draught, giving Case, who called himself Warren, $750 in cash, and a promissory note, dated at thirty days, for $580.27. According to their custom, a clerk was sent by the firm to the alleged acceptors of the draught, Hubbard & Casey, who instantly pronounced it a forgery. The public were immediately informed, and the officers, Human, Merritt, and Sparks, soon captured the delinquent on board a Philadelphia steamboat, on his way, as he said, to Baltimore. They brought him to the Police Office, where he was examined before Mr Justice Lowndes. Another draught was found in his wallet, upon Messrs Hubbard & Casey, for the same amount as the former, but with a different date. He stated that on his way from Boston, to New York, he met a person calling himself George P. Warren, and who represented himself as an extensive boot and shoe manufacturer, living at Haverhill, Mass. In the mean time, this individual gave him the two draughts in question, in consideration of certain commissions which he anticipated to make, from the sales of large consignments of boots and shoes promised to be sent by him to Mobile. The reason why Warren gave him this favor, was, as he stated, to encourage one whom he believed to be an industrious and frugal young man, and told him, if any questions were asked, to call himself George B. Warren. On account of the absurdity of this statement, he was fully committed for trial. It seems that on landing from the steamboat at New York, he put up at the City Hotel, and after getting the draught cashed, he removed to Congress Hall. While here, he got a wig made at a hair-dressers. Of the $750 cash which he had received from Messrs Osborn & Sistare, he had paid $400 to a Mr John Blunt on his own account, and enclosed $150 to his wife, at Boston, and had paid his tavern bills, &c. These sums, together with $112.50 found about him, made up nearly the whole of the sum received in exchange for the forged draught. He was born in Grafton, Mass., where his parents now reside. He has employed Ogden Hoffman and Mr Price as his counsel.

Forgery.—We have before remarked upon the arrest of a young man named John Case, of Boston, who assumed the name of Warren, for forgery, and now gather further particulars from a report of his examination at the Police Office. On Friday last he went to the office of Orlando C. Osborn and George K. Sistare, Brokers, No. 13 Wall street, requesting them to discount a draught for him for $1363.45, purporting to be drawn by Mr Osis Rich, of Boston, and accepted by Hubbard & Casey, of Broad street, New York, in favor of Mr George P. Warren, payable at the Phoenix Bank. Messrs Osborn & Sistare unsuspecting discounted the draught, giving Case, who called himself Warren, $750 in cash, and a promissory note, dated at thirty days, for $580.27. According to their custom, a clerk was sent by the firm to the alleged acceptors of the draught, Hubbard & Casey, who instantly pronounced it a forgery. The public were immediately informed, and the officers, Human, Merritt, and Sparks, soon captured the delinquent on board a Philadelphia steamboat, on his way, as he said, to Baltimore. They brought him to the Police Office, where he was examined before Mr Justice Lowndes. Another draught was found in his wallet, upon Messrs Hubbard & Casey, for the same amount as the former, but with a different date. He stated that on his way from Boston, to New York, he met a person calling himself George P. Warren, and who represented himself as an extensive boot and shoe manufacturer, living at Haverhill, Mass. In the mean time, this individual gave him the two draughts in question, in consideration of certain commissions which he anticipated to make, from the sales of large consignments of boots and shoes promised to be sent by him to Mobile. The reason why Warren gave him this favor, was, as he stated, to encourage one whom he believed to be an industrious and frugal young man, and told him, if any questions were asked, to call himself George B. Warren. On account of the absurdity of this statement, he was fully committed for trial. It seems that on landing from the steamboat at New York, he put up at the City Hotel, and after getting the draught cashed, he removed to Congress Hall. While here, he got a wig made at a hair-dressers. Of the $750 cash which he had received from Messrs Osborn & Sistare, he had paid $400 to a Mr John Blunt on his own account, and enclosed $150 to his wife, at Boston, and had paid his tavern bills, &c. These sums, together with $112.50 found about him, made up nearly the whole of the sum received in exchange for the forged draught. He was born in Grafton, Mass., where his parents now reside. He has employed Ogden Hoffman and Mr Price as his counsel.

are taught on an improved plan by which a competent knowledge of these branches may be attained in ONE-THIRD of the time usually required to obtain them.

FOSTER'S PRACTICAL PENMANSHIP,

is so simple and effective as to eradicate the most confirmed scrawl, and to substitute in its place a neat, rapid style of writing, adapted to the practical and every day purposes of life.

BOOK-KEEPING, BY SINGLE AND DOUBLE ENTRY

is taught in a practical manner—the learner is exercised in making original entries in the most concise and correct form—in drawing out invoices—account sales—receiving and accepting of bills—averaging by simple and compound equation, &c.

Each pupil is taught individually, and not by general explanation, so as to enable him to comprehend at once, and perhaps comprehend more easily, than any other, the whole of the subject.

FOSTER'S PRACTICAL PENMANSHIP,
